COMMUNITY GUIDE
RULES AND REGULATIONS

INTRODUCTION

This latest edition of The Community Guide supplants the previous Guide and was developed in accordance with Article IV, Section 13 of the "Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions" and with the Bylaws to bring community rules and regulations up-to-date.

The Community Guide contains a summary of selected guidelines governing The Village, as determined by the covenants, bylaws, and rulings by the Board of Directors and the Architectural Review Committee (ARC). They apply to all residents and compliance is expected. The guidelines are enforced by a Board of Directors, comprised of five members, duly elected by homeowners of the community. Compliance with any set of guidelines requires that some measure of individuality must be relinquished in order to achieve a common goal. These guidelines have been written with that purpose in mind.

The general appearance of the community's grounds and buildings, is the responsibility of the Architectural Review Committee (ARC). The committee is appointed by the Board of Directors and is empowered to approve or disapprove any exterior modifications to an individual residence, improvements within the common areas and within the Association's Maintenance Areas. In the event a homeowner disagrees with an ARC decision, the homeowner may appeal to the Board of Directors for a hearing. Decisions reached at the Board hearing are final and binding. The property management company also has the responsibility to monitor compliance with the rules and regulations, and with the Governing Documents.

Documents and forms which are of vital concern to the proper functioning of the community include "Architectural Review Request Form" which must be completed and submitted to ARC by the homeowner prior to commencing exterior work, and the items discussed in Bulletin No. 18, dated March 14, 1995 which define "Assessments and Collection Procedures", and "Violations to The Governing Documents", hereinafter collectively referred to and attached as Appendix "A". Compliance with these documents are essential to the solvency, well being, and proper maintenance of the community.

The Board of Directors encourages all residents to become involved in community activities. Each homeowner is encouraged to attend Board meetings and when called upon, serve on committees. Only through active participation can the Homeowners' Association be responsive to individual and common needs. Active participation will ensure that your home remains a sound investment with a secure and stable environment in The Village where life can be enjoyable and pleasant for all. To better understand the sources of the guidelines outlined in this document, the following codes are used where appropriate.

C: Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (these are equivalent to law and cannot be changed easily).

ARC: Architectural Review Committee (this is a decision made by the committee and can be revised by the committee or Board of Directors. In the event of a conflict between an ARC decision and the Covenants, the Covenants shall control).

The use of hand sprinkling or a drip sprinkling system attached to the homeowner's domestic water system is recommended. Regardless of the method of irrigation, the homeowner shall be solely liable for the water supplied and for any water damage to his/her home and/or the homes of others, whether from surface flooding or underground percolation or seepage of irrigation water.

If any planting bed is not maintained in an attractive manner or if plantings are permitted to grow beyond approved heights of (approx. 3') or beyond the limits of the bed, the Association retains the right to remove all materials and restore the area to its original condition, all at the expense of the homeowner.

4. During the growing season, flowers in flower pots may be placed in stone areas in front, along the living room side and back of houses, on patio slabs and/or decks, front entry walks and porches. Pots must be designed for flower use. Remove flower pots at the end of the growing season. (R)
